

SCHWAB FORESEES U. S. PROSPEROUS BEYOND DREAMS

Believes Nation Will Be Workshop of World—Praises American Labor.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 28.—At the annual banquet of the National Paint and Varnish Association last night, Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, expressed the opinion that America is on the threshold of unbelievable commercial prosperity. He said:

"After forty-one years of experience I am not alarmed in the least degree over the present business depression. We have had a great business spree, a prosperity drunk, and we are now in cold gray dawn of the morning after. We have got to pay the bill, and we may as well pay it with a good heart, knowing it will in the long run put us on the most solid foundation for building up this great country."

"I believe this great country will be the workshop of the world. We are on the eve of the greatest development. However wild may be your business dreams of the future I will wager they will not be as wild as the realization which many of you younger men will see. If I had my life to live over, to-day is the time I would start."

"I am optimistic, as I have always been. We have just had a board meeting of my companies in New York, and decided at once to undertake expansion of works that are now running at but 20 per cent. of their capacity. We can do it cheaper now than at any other time, and when prosperity comes we will be ready to reap the benefits of it."

Of labor disputes, Mr. Schwab said:

"Wherever I go I hear learned orators declare Labor and Capital should co-operate and work together. This is easily said, but I have yet to find the man who tells me how to do it. This is how I solved the problem:

"I went on the basis that if this country is properly governed, its system ought to be a good one for business. I then declared it would have a congress. The management superintendents, foremen are the senate, and the workers select and elect the representatives to the Congress. Every 200 workmen elect one representative, and these meet every two weeks, as does the Senate. Every month they meet in joint session and all questions are discussed and decided. In a great majority of cases we have found the workingman to be right. At all events we have had no strikes. This has demonstrated to me that the average American worker is a much higher type of man than we at the head of establishments have been accustomed to credit him with being. There is no better American citizen or one possessed with more integrity and fair understanding than the average American worker."

SUIT TO EVICT WOMAN OF 75 WON BY CHURCH

Mrs. Heffron's Status Is That of Discharged Servant, Court Finds.

Mrs. Cynthia L. Heffron, seventy-five, who for the last fourteen years has lived in the parish house of All Souls' Church, No. 88 St. Nicholas Avenue, will have to vacate by an order of Justice Mullin handed down today.

Mrs. Heffron, in asking that the trustees and vestrymen be restrained from evicting her, claimed that she had been given an apartment in the parish house for life by a former rector, who had engaged her to serve as visitor to the sick and needy of the parish. A year ago, she alleged, she became ill and unable to work and the church wanted to place her in a home. She refused to go. A suit then was filed by her, claiming that there was due her for her services $18,416.67. This action is still pending.

Justice Mullin wrote that her status is that of a legally discharged servant.

PLANT PESTS LIVE ON THREE-INCH PLANKS

Professor Segregates Fungi That Harms New England Woods.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 28.—Five plant pests that live on a diet of three inch planks have been segregated by Prof. Walter H. Snell, of the Botany Department at Brown University, in the course of a special investigation of the causes of rot in the roofs of New England wood sheds.

The pests are being carefully nurtured at the Brown University Laboratory on their favorite varieties of lumber. They are saprophytes, the scientific name for plant vegetarians, and their most vicious member is called Lenites asparila.

Dr. Snell is working on a method of roof construction that will cut down roof-dampness and allow concrete to be used without danger of dripping on the beams below. If successful, his investigations may mean a large saving in roof replacements to mill owners.

No Pretty Girls In This Country, Says Professor

Chicago "Co-Eds" Gasp When Told Africans and Coreans Edge All in Beauty.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—There are no beautiful women in the United States. It is only our American good nature that makes us call a girl who is not phenomenally ugly a pretty girl."

Frederick Starr, professor of anthropology, has been added to the Society of Noted Crepe Hangers by the University of Chicago "co-eds" because of the foregoing statements, which he made to a startled class. The professor continued:

"A handsome man or woman is the rarest of all creatures. There is no real beauty in the United States. Only among Liberian and kindred races is real beauty to be found."

Then after praising African belles he asserted Americans were too hybrid to be beautiful.

"Our standards of beauty would be denied by any European nation," he said. "The Corean yellow race quite frequently surpasses us in specimens of beauty. The Igorrotes at the World's Fair were everywhere marvelled at for their physical attributes. "Beauty in a blond race is next to impossible. It is more difficult for a blonde to measure up to beauty standards than it is for a brunette."

LA GUARDIA AIDS CURRAN AND DENOUNCES MILLER

President La Guardia of the Board of Aldermen last night took the stump for Henry H. Curran, who defeated him in the recent Republican primary contest for the Mayoralty nomination. He denounced Gov. Miller and said he was supporting Mr. Curran because the latter stood for the 5-cent fare and against the "worst Governor New York ever had—Nathan L. Miller."

He addressed 1,000 Italians at the People's House, No. 317 East 118th Street, and appealed to every voter to support the whole Coalition ticket. Much of his address was an attack on Comptroller Craig, with whom he has been at odds two years.

The War of Vitamines and Calories

IN trying to follow the development in food research I find myself in a maze of bewildering technicalities that befog the subject rather than clarify it.

A few years ago experts determined the value of foods by the "calory" standard. Food was measured by the same rule used in gauging the value of a ton of coal. Then somebody came along with a broadside of common sense and shot this theory full of holes and opened the way for the orgy of vitamines we are now going through.

It was discovered that no matter what else you get in your rations you had to have vitamines. Three or four kinds were identified and enterprising benefactors began to sell them by the pound or pint or whatever way you liked them best.

Now comes Alfred W. McCann with an iconoclastic assault on the whole vitamin theory, so plausible and convincing that he leaves you exactly where you were in the period when you had neither of these mysterious agencies to lean on.

But this is not your fight, you can sit back and watch this scientific wrangle with the absolute security you will find in one infallible rule, and that is: In the foods nature has provided, she placed all of those things you need to support normal healthy life. Take these foods as nature constructed them and you will get what nature decided was best for you to have. And nature knows.

Food is life. There can be no normal life without normal foods. The fact that you see an occasional glutton apparently surviving a perpetual food debauch does not mean that he is happy with it. He pays in the end.

When you see a child growing on a diet of refined, demineralized foods don't be deceived into believing that these foods are adequate. They are not. Sooner or later that child will suffer the want of the things that were missing in its food, and too often the realization of this fact comes when it is too late to apply the remedy.

We know that milk, whole grains, vegetables, melons, nuts and fruits contain all the vital food elements. Whether you look for vitamines or calories or something else you will get them in natural, whole foods.

Let your food habits be the result of common sense. Begin with milk. Milk has everything you need. It provides every known nutritive agent and of all foods is the easiest to assimilate. But you want variety. Use milk as the principal part of your diet, then add other foods for bulk or to please the palate. But have your milk regularly. A quart a day or more.

Then the questions of vitamines, calories, carbohydrates, fats, proteins and mineral salts need never bother you. Because you will know that you have your share of all of them.
